PREPAREDNESS LUNCH AND LEARN

February 18, 2025

EMS, Physician, Nursing, Social Worker and Nursing Home Administrator credits are available for all sessions.

Distributing medical countermeasures is a critical part of any public health emergency. Public health, hospital, and other healthcare partners work together to ensure medical countermeasures get to the public as quickly as possible. These medical countermeasures come from the federal government cache, the Strategic National Stockpile. In this presentation, presenters from local public health, and healthcare coalitions cover the process from start to finish. This includes the request for assets through how each partner moves them through the process.

ASPR TRACIE RESOURCE SPOTLIGHT: CRISIS STANDARDS OF CARE CONSIDERATIONS: PHARMACEUTICAL AND SUPPLY SHORTAGES

Crisis Standards of Care (CSC) originally assumed the conditions causing patients to be placed at risk would be pervasive and due to a catastrophic disaster. During the COVID-19 pandemic, many pharmaceutical products, including vaccines, monoclonal antibodies, and remdesivir, had to be rationed. Even in the absence of a disaster situation, frequent product shortages – such as RhoGAM, blood products, radiologic contrast, chemotherapy agents, blood culture bottles, and intravenous fluids – place patients at substantial risk of a poor health outcome.
